3. Link of the Month: CSN Baywide Design Specifications

The Chesapeake Stormwater Network (CSN) recently updated their Baywide Design Specifications for stormwater Best Management Practices. While these specifications were written to meet the new requirements under Virginia's proposed revisions to their stormwater management regulations, they are intended to serve as technical guidance to other jurisdictions within the Chesapeake Bay region. It is anticipated that many of the elements contained in these specifications will be reflected in the runoff reduction methodology proposed under revisions to the Delaware Sediment & Stormwater Regulations.
